STAYING SAFE ONLINE: A VITAL RESOURCE

Recent national statistics shared by the NSPCC show that there has been a 60% increase in reported concerns about children and their online behaviours. This is in large part owing to the increased amount of time spent online during lockdown. As parents, it can often be very difficult to keep on top of how your child is using the internet, especially as the number of apps and ways of communicating are increasing so rapidly. The NSPCC has teamed up with O2 to create Net Aware, a brilliant online information tool for parents and carers which enables you to get a real insight into all the latest apps and social media platforms by doing a quick search. All new and common social media apps have been reviewed by a panel of industry experts to give parents an 'at a glance' summary of its safety rating and any known risks or threats associated with it. Just type in the name of an app e.g. TikTok to see all the key information you need to make a decision about how best to support your child.

#VOICEOFYOUTH FOR WORLD CHILDRENS' DAY

Many thanks to our Head Girl, Amelia Beresford-Wilson, for raising awareness of UNICEF's World Children's Day this year. She is urging generations to come together to reimagine the type of world we live in. To do this, she is asking students across the school to pick a cause that matters to them and create an original illustration of the world they want to live in. To commemorate the day, the artwork will be published on the school Twitter page. We can't wait to see what our students come up with! For more, click here

ART STARS SHINE BRIGHT ACROSS THE SCHOOL

Well done to all the students who won Art Star of the week for displaying hard work, tenacity and creativity in producing some amazing pieces of work in Art over the past week. Their work has been displayed in the corridor along with other students from each year group. They should be really proud of the work they have created and it has really brightened up the art corridor!

Well done to Thomas Henton & George R Y7, Iara Correia & Adam Nowak Y8, Phoebe Harrison and Kara, Y9 and Rebecca Thompson.Y10
